DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claims 2-4 and 10-11 are objected to because of the following informalities: it is recommended that more definite language is used to replace the term “can be” because it is vague. Appropriate correction is required.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to because “S” in boxes 5 in figure should be clearly labeled as “SENSORS” instead of “S”.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as “amended.” If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled “Replacement Sheet” in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1, 10, and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kunz (DE 39 16 460 C2) (cited by the applicant).

Claims 1, 10, and 12:

Kunz discloses a system and method for dynamically adjusting a vehicle component which affects operation of the vehicle, and whose behavior is influenced by a characteristic variable comprising means for automatically changing the characteristic variable (longitudinal or lateral dynamics of the vehicle) while traveling, via an actuator element and a control unit which can adjust the actuator element via actuation signals in accordance with a stored calculation rule. Sensors are used in Kunz for supplying control measurement signals such as vertical and lateral forces exerted on the tires, which reflects behavior of a vehicle operator, determined over a predefined time period. Kunz thus inherently discloses that characteristics variables of oscillation profile of measured vehicle state variables are compared in the comparison unit of the control unit with assigned setpoint variables to determine whether the vehicle operator adapts to the change in the behavior of the vehicle component which results from the change in the characteristic variable of the vehicle component. An actuation then is fed to the actuator element in Kunz which at least partially reverses the change in the characteristic variable of the vehicle component, is generated, if the driver does not adapt to the change in behavior of the vehicle component. See applicant's admitted prior art on page 1, last paragraph.

Art Unit: 2636

Claim 2:

In Kunz, at least one of vehicle steering angle and vehicle lateral acceleration is determined as a variable which can be influenced by the behavior of the driver.

Claim 11:

Inherently the vehicle component which influences the driving behavior is one of the vehicle brake, the power steering system, the drive chain controller and the spring/damper system in the vehicle.

Claim 13:

The operator adapts to the change of vehicle dynamics is determined by whether at least one oscillation parameter of the measured state variable exceeds a preset threshold value.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 3-9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Levine, US Patent No. 6,643,578, discloses a vehicle drive override system.

Nishiyama, US Appl. 2001/0004723 A1, discloses a vehicle deceleration control apparatus and control method thereof.

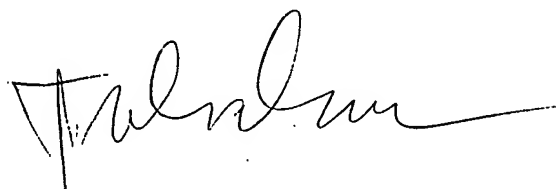

Kawagoe, US Patent No. 5,023,997, discloses a fail-safe vehicle control system.
